

Help To The Russian Midwife: Part One

The community Midwife in Russia has to walk miles to each woman in labour, due to a lack of transport through the wild, vast country side with little support. Hence they have to carry all the equipment they can to each community.

Each Midwife has very little and if any, basic equipment for each delivery - they do not even have any means to sterilise the equipment they have.

Earlier this year HealthProm went out to Russia to help assist the Midwives and saw first hand the harsh and difficult conditions they have to bring new life into the world.

After Clinical Innovations (Europe) heard this, they started working with HealthProm to design and produce a way to provide the midwives with the basic requirements for a delivery of a healthy new born baby.

Not only will the equipment be able to provide the Midwife with everything she/he requires, they can also wash and decontaminate the equipment ready for the next woman in labour.

The ideas are currently in process, so download the next chapter to see the solution...